Dear Tony,

I wanted you to know that we fully appreciate the vital role that your firm played in the restoration of Chelsea Piers in the aftermath of Hurricane Sandy. We would not have opened our doors on December 1st, less than 5 weeks after the storm, if EJ Electric had not delivered.

You showed up at Chelsea Piers at 7:00 am, on Thursday morning, November 1st. Within hours the EJ team sprung into action - generators, work assessments, labor mobilization, material orders, etc. 4-5 Days later we discussed the damage, the scope of work and possible target opening dates. Based on the input from Alan Doubert, we all agreed that December 1st would be the day Chelsea Piers reopened to the public. EJ delivered as promised. Collectively, thru the work of EJ Electric, Chelsea Piers employees and several other excellent construction entities, the Chelsea Piers was restored and is now being enjoyed every day of the week by thousands of kids and adults. We believe that Chelsea Piers return to action has helped the city get past some of the darker moments associated with Hurricane Sandy.

Please stop by for a visit. We would welcome the opportunity to show you the Piers back in action.

Warm regards,
